

One-time code. Real-time protection.

Keep your card—and your paycheck—safe with a quick extra step at the pump. When you start a fuel purchase, you'll get a text with a six-digit code. Enter that code on the pump to confirm it's really you. Nothing to it.

Dynamic Code adds a one-time step to fueling that adds an important layer of security to fueling. The best part? It fits right into the prompts on the pump that you already see. No new apps, and no extra hassle.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

Swipe your QuikQ fuel card and begin the normal prompts.

Check your phone for a text with a six-digit code (the text includes the site and city/state).

Enter the code in the Order #/ Trip # field on the pump.

Finish the prompts and fuel as usual.

If the code isn't used within 15 minutes, it expires. Start again to get a new code.

FOR YOUR INFO:

- No text? Call dispatch to confirm the correct mobile number is on file.
- Code not accepted? Re-enter carefully and make sure you're using the Order/Trip field (labels vary by merchant).
- Code expired? Restart the transaction and use the new texted code.
- Changed phone number? Tell dispatch so your number can be updated.
- Don't share your code. It's good for one transaction only.
- Opted out by texting "STOP?" Your SMS authorization is off until your carrier re-enables it.
